Senate Banking Group Asks Rent Controls

House 'Home Rule' Plan Not Included

Washington, March 16—(AP)—A Senate banking subcommittee today voted for a 15-month extension of rent controls and authorized rent increases of up to 15 per cent over the June 30, 1947 level in certain cases.

The bill approved by the committee by voice vote also provides for letting the individual states take over the rent control program if the governor certified that an adequate state law was on the books.

That section differs from a provision of the House approved bill which lets state or local officials remove rent controls whenever they please.

Expires March 31

The present rent control law expires March 31. The bill approved by the Senate subcommittee would continue them through June 30, 1950.

Chairman Sparkman (D-Ala.) of the banking subcommittee said he plans to put the revised rent measure before the full banking group tomorrow.

The subcommittee's bill also provides for:

1. Giving the housing expediter authority to write expedient regulations which would apply uniformly throughout the country. The effect of the present law is to let local eviction laws govern.

2. Criminal penalties of up to one year in jail and $5,000 fine for willful violation of the rent control law or the expediter's regulations. These wartime penalties were discontinued in 1947 and the House measure does not contain these provisions.

Triple Damages

3. Authority for the housing expediter to sue for treble damages in the behalf of tenants in case of rent overcharges. Only the tenant can take such action now.

4. Recontrol of permanent residential hotel units and a rollback of those rents to the level of Oct. 31, 1948. The administration had asked for a rollback to June 30, 1947.

5. Recontrol of trailer camps used for permanent residence.

6. Recontrol of so-called luxury apartments renting for $20 or more a month. The housing expediter could lower that figure if there were luxury apartments available at less rent in a particular area.

7. Recontrol of all apartments which were decontrolled in 1947 on the ground that they had been off the market as rental units for the two previous years. Sparkman said the purpose of the 1947 action was to bring those places back on the market, but that the result has been "quite disappointing."

Sally's Attorney Asks To Question Judge Under Oath

Washington, March 16—(AP)—Mildred E. "Axis Sally" Gillars' attorney asked permission today to question under oath the judge who presided at her treason trial.

James J. Laughlin made the request in an amendment to his motion for a new trial for the convicted traitor.

Laughlin based his plea on a statement by Federal Judge Edward M. Curran that he asked John M. Kelly, Jr., chief government prosecutor, "on a couple of occasions" whether he planned to submit any instructions for the jury.

Kelly replied that he did not.

"Request is made that the trial judge be sworn and testimony taken to determine whether there were conferences on other occasions," Laughlin's amended motion said.

"It is our view that the disclosure by the trial judge that he had conferred secretly with the prosecution staff is so contrary to the accepted judicial practice in the administration of the criminal law that the matter should be scrutinized with the greatest care in order that we may develop all the facts."

Bars Video From Cars' Front Seats

Springfield, Ill., March 16—(AP)—A proposed bar on television screens in automobile front seats today won committee approval in the Illinois House.

Before endorsing the bill, the committee on motor vehicles and traffic regulation amended it to soften penalty provisions.

Rep. Rollo Robbins (R-Augusta) objected to a six months' jail sentence for convicted violators, and it was stricken. A clause setting fines at $1,000 was left unchanged.

A measure was sponsored by Rep. Harry W. McClellin (R-West Frankfort), who said television screens in autos would distract drivers and add to motoring hazards.

U. N. Fails To Settle Berlin Currency Fight

Lake Success, March 16—(AP)—

United Nations efforts to settle the Berlin currency dispute have ended in failure, the president of the Security Council said tonight.

The western powers an hour later issued formal statements blaming Russia for the breakdown. At that time Russia had no comment.

The negotiations had been undertaken late last year by a committee of so-called neutral experts in the hope of ending the Berlin blockade by ironing out currency troubles between the four occupying powers.

Council President Albert Einstein Alvarez of Cuba made his statement in making public for the first time a 150-page report the committee completed in Geneva Feb. 11.

The top ranking Soviet representative here, Deputy Foreign Minister Jakob A. Malik, told newsmen he had not seen the report. Russia, however, had filed a statement with the committee in Geneva charging the western powers with responsibility for the failure.

Alvarez indicated he and other "neutrals" on the council have no plan to re-open the Berlin debate unless one of the big powers asks.

them to. Informed quarters said neither the United States, Britain or France had any intention now to raise the issue again.

A United States statement said "the very basis for an agreement upon the administration of Berlin currency and trade under four power supervision has been undermined by the illegal actions of Soviet authorities within the city itself."

American delegation sources said the U. S. still felt as it did in Paris last fall when the U. N. was meeting there, that the currency question was not the real issue in Berlin but was merely used by Russia to cover an aim to force the western powers out of the German capital.

ORATES OVER 12 HOURS

Hard Coal Operators Say Layoff Violates Contract

Pittsburgh, March 16—(AP)—Hard coal operators today called the three-day old mine shutdown a violation of the anthracite mine contract.

The Eastern Pennsylvania operators disputed hard coal miners' right to stop work in a "mourning period." That was one of the reasons cited for calling the work stoppage which halted hard and soft coal mining Monday east of the Mississippi.

The operators urged UMW President John L. Lewis to end it at once in the public interest. Rumbled Lewis in reply: "Gratuitously offensive and untrue."

Leaders of the big anthracite industry centered in Eastern Pennsylvania fired off telegrams to UMW President John L. Lewis in which they:

1—Called the Lewis work stoppage order a contract violation;

2—Urged him to rescind his order in the public interest.

Lewis replied it was untrue his mine workers were breaking their contract. He insisted they were abiding by the contract which says they shall work as long as they are "willing and able."

The directors of the anthracite operations association at Wilkes-Barre wired Lewis the mine shutdown was seriously affecting the health and welfare of the entire anthracite region. They told him "homes, hospitals, schools and other public institutions are now short of fuel."

Ralph Taggart, Philadelphia, president of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Co., and chairman of the anthracite operators group, released a telegram he sent Lewis and the reply received from the union leader.

The Taggart telegram said: "The present work stoppage is in clear violation of our agreement. . . I demand that your stop work order be immediately rescinded."

REACTION COMPARATIVELY CALM
TO LATEST ESPIONAGE ARRESTS

The arrest of Judith Coplon and Valentin Gubitchev on espionage charges has seemed to excite people a lot less than the Whittaker Chambers and Elizabeth Bentley investigations. The more recent story is big, of course. But it hasn't produced the talk and headlines—to say nothing of the radio gags—that Mr. Chambers and his pumpkin did.

We don't know why. Maybe it is because the announcement came from the Justice Department, which pitches its pronouncements in a lower key than the House Un-American Activities Committee does. Or maybe the side attractions in the earlier investigations—conflicting stories, perjury indictments, libel suits, the running fight between the House committee and the attorney general, and Mr. Truman's "red herring" charge—were what caught the public interest.

Whatever the reason, the new case seems to have received a generally calm reaction. We were interested to note that even some members of our own profession were handling it more soberly. On the day that the story broke, two New York newspapers described Miss Coplon as "plain."

Perhaps a movie producer would never stop Miss Coplon on the street and offer her a screen test. But her pictures don't show her to be particularly plain. It must be that the New York press was proceeding cautiously after its experience with Miss Bentley. Some of the early stories described her as a glamorous blonde. But that was before the photographers and their pictures came along.

The difference in the amount of interest in the two stories certainly does not reflect their comparative importance. The Chambers and Bentley testimony seems like faded memoirs in the light of what has happened since the period that their testimony covered.

Ten or a dozen years ago the United States thought it was on fairly good terms with Russia. Communism in this country seemed mainly a parlor preoccupation of irritating intellectuals. And many of those intellectuals could not have understood the full, literal and treacherous meaning of "come the revolution." Some good patriotic Americans gave an occasional five dollars to help Loyalist Spain in those days. Communism, to most of us, seemed more of a bore than a menace.

It was in that atmosphere that the State Department pinks operated. Some of them, too, were probably more stupid than sinister, although stupidity does not excuse disloyalty. But there can be no plea of ignorance today. Any government employee who procures information for a Soviet agent knows precisely what he or she is doing, and why.

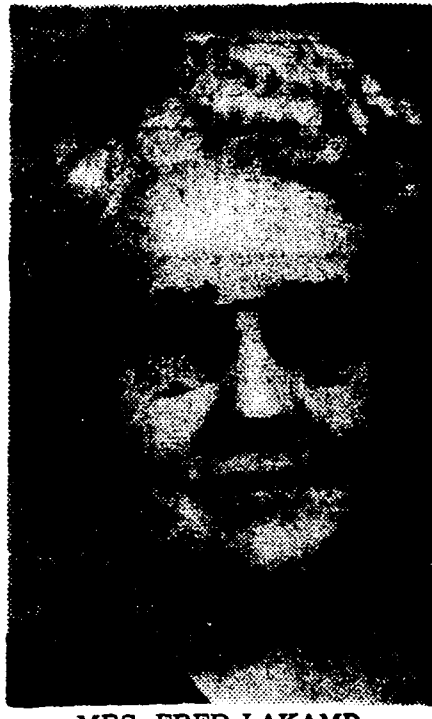

The case against Miss Coplon and Gubitchev, while not tried and proved, looks strong. Certainly it is much stronger and clearer than anything that came out of the Chambers-Bentley disclosures. The charges that it contains—even the charge that Russia uses the UN as a screen for spying—are not surprising. And it is more gratifying than surprising to know that the FBI was on its toes in this matter.

The authorities are getting down to brass tacks in this case, which brings the most serious accusations yet made under the government's loyalty investigation program. It is not prejudging the case to say that the FBI has done a good job. Its quiet, thorough, untiring efforts offer a much better means of dealing with the Communist menace than noisy, spotlighted congressional investigations.

OPEN HOUSE ON ANNIVERSARY

FRED LAKAMP

MRS. FRED LAKAMP

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lakamp of Jacksonville route 1 will observe their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary next Sunday, March 20. They will hold open house for friends and relatives from 2 to 5 p. m. at their home west of the city.

Before marriage Mrs. Lakamp was Miss Anna Nergenhof of north of Chapin. Mr. and Mrs. Lakamp were united March 20, 1924, by the Rev. J. H. F. Sieving, who was then pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church at Chapin.

They are parents of two children, Mrs. Maxine Rahe of this city and Warren Lakamp, residing at home.

Here's Something New
In Society Benefits

The new contemporary home of Mr. and Mrs. George Carpenter, 1311 Mound avenue, will be the scene of an unusual event Sunday afternoon, March 20.

Visitors will be welcome at the fine new residence, in which are to be found many unique and modern ideas in architecture. For a small admission fee they will be given opportunity to inspect each room in one of the most interesting homes which have been built here in many years. All of the proceeds of the open house inspection will go to the treasury of the Marion Tanner guild of the Congregational church.

Some organizations raise funds by holding bazaars and markets; others solicit magazine subscriptions; but this is probably the first time that a new private residence has been opened to visitors for the benefit of a church society.

Many persons have exhibited interest in construction of the new home, a fact which prompted the Marion Tanner guild to arrange the benefit event, with the cooperation of Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter.

Hours of open house inspection will be from 2:30 to 5:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Venetian Blind
Truck Overturns;
Woman Injured

Mrs. Nick Gioscio, 838 Doolin avenue, is recovering at her home from painful injuries suffered Monday afternoon when a truck belonging to the Jacksonville Venetian Blind Service turned over on U. S. Highway 36, east of Alexander.

Mrs. Gioscio, whose husband operates the venetian blind service, was returning from Springfield. Snow flurries obscured her vision of the pavement and one of the front wheels of the truck slipped from the concrete. As she attempted to pull back on the pavement the truck skidded and overturned.

The two Gioscio children, Mike, two, and Connie, one, came out of the wreck without injuries. Robert Miller, an employee of the company, suffered a cut on his right hand and injuries to the left shoulder and elbow.

Mrs. Gioscio was taken to Passavant hospital and attended by Dr. Mary Louise Newman.

The damaged truck was taken to the Lukeman Motor Co. garage for repairs.

Grated onion, chopped parsley, salt and freshly-ground pepper make an excellent seasoning combination for hamburgers. Serve with creamed potatoes.

Accident Course
Another Activity
Of Red Cross

Another of the important activities carried on through the Morgan County Red Cross chapter is the accident prevention course it offers.

That interest is shown in these courses is witnessed by the fact that 189 persons completed five-day course conducted here for teachers in Jacksonville and Morgan county under the direction of Irvan L. Simone, field representative from National Red Cross headquarters.

The course, which consists of six hours and is designed for the prevention of home and farm accidents, was held in October of 1948. Teachers of grades one through six were provided with instruction outlines and a safety check list.

Certificates have been issued to all teachers who completed the course and those who have made application for the Junior Red Cross accident prevention course have been made certified instructors by national headquarters.

The Junior Red Cross is taught in the seventh and eighth grades. Each month a guide for safety instruction is sent to the teachers in the city and county schools from the local Red Cross chapter office.

The Illinois state legislature passed a law in the summer of 1947, requiring one hour of accident prevention training each week in all schools.

Burning Mattress
Causes Fire Alarm

A mattress in a room on the second floor of the Illinois hotel caught fire shortly before 11 o'clock Wednesday morning.

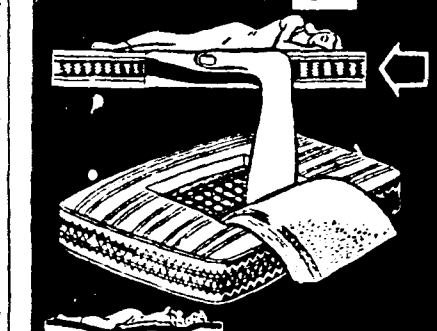

The blaze was discovered by one of the maids. Quick action on the part of the owner, G. L. Long, who threw the burning mattress out of a rear window, prevented the fire from spreading. Damage was limited to the mattress.

The fire department was called and the blaze was extinguished by use of a booster and hand pump.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Never Too Late To Learn

Cappy Miller's young son, Squint, is forever coming up with new ideas. Now they're not all world beaters, but Cappy is usually willing to give them a try.

Seems Squint found a new way to clear brush. They take two tractors, about thirty feet apart, and connect them with a heavy chain weighted down on the ground with old iron. First they both go parallel in one direction, then they go back over the same swath in the opposite direction and up comes the brush—roots and all. Worked fine and saved time.

That's why things go so well at the Miller farm. Cappy is open-minded, tolerant of new ideas and new ways of doing. He doesn't think his way is the only way.

From where I sit, a little tolerance will make things go better for all of us. You respect my views and I'll respect yours—whether it's on farming, politics, or choosing between an ice cream soda or a temperate glass of beer.

Opinion Varies On Whether Britain's Health Program Is What Doctor Ordered

London, March 16—(AP)—Is Britain's new socialized medicine program "just what the doctor ordered?" Opinion varies.

"Not exactly yet," says the doctor. He is watching to see whether the plan will stand the test of an epidemic. Also, he thinks he should get a better reward for his services.

A majority of Englishmen seem to think it is the answer to their prayers. "Nothing has changed," they say. "The standards of care are the same either way."

But you can find as many who say medical care is harder for them to get now.

"If I want to get fast attention outside of an emergency, I still pay the doctor," these say. "Then I don't have to wait."

One thing is certain: more Englishmen are getting needed medical and dental treatment now that the money has dropped.

The doctor won't dispute that. But he does not think that all practitioners are getting a square deal on their pay.

Seek To Hike Average Fee
The British Medical Association is leading a fight to amend some sections of the law, particularly to raise the average fee for each patient on the doctor's list.

A doctor participating in the service may be paid in one of two ways: by a capitation fee of $3.60 a year for each public patient, or by a fixed annual payment of $1.20, plus a capitation fee at a rate about one-seventh lower than otherwise. In addition, he gets extra fees, a baby delivery, for example, gives him an extra $29.40. A country doctor receives an automobile mileage fee which recently was raised 50 per cent.

The BMA's "Medical Journal" says a survey showed the average income of doctors has gone down. It also reports "widespread dissatisfaction in the profession with the conditions of service under the national health scheme."

A doctor is permitted to take 4,000 public patients plus any private patients he wishes. Or he may continue to practice privately exclusively.

Base Income of $13,332
Under either method of payment, a doctor with 1,000 public patients receives a gross basic income of approximately $4,232 or with 4,000 patients about $13,332 before tax and expense deductions.

The British Medical Association maintains that to earn a decent living today a doctor must have 4,000 patients because taxes and operating expenses cut his gross income at least in half.

The British Medical Association believes it has overcome the bugaboo of socialized medicine—the danger that doctors would become salaried servants of the state.

The medical profession demands—and won't an amendment which eliminates the chances of the state dictating to the doctor as its employee what his patient needs. That key battle won, the vast majority of general practitioners decided to work in the health program.

POP Goes the QUEEN

By Bob Wade and Bill Miller

© by Bob Wade and Bill Miller. Distributed by NEA SERVICE, INC.

XXXIX
AT first, Sin couldn't see it. Then, as she lifted a hand to shield her eyes from the bright embers of the campfire, she could discern a shadow darker than the rest. "Is that the Queen, Johnny?"

"Don't ask me," John Henry muttered. "I can't see a thing." Mr. Trim held his eyes on the sleeping Barselou, but motioned with his head. "Look up, Conover. It's in the sky."

John Henry followed his advice. The outline of a wooden hull slowly took form against the rosy glow. The "Reina" had not come to rest on the canyon bottom. Rather, the galleon was wedged between the rock jaws of the chasm, almost 200 feet above their heads. Either the ground had eroded beneath her keel in the past two centuries or some convulsion of the wasteland had dropped her below ground level into the great gap. The Queen was earthbound, as in some gigantic dry dock. Her timber sides gripped the sister cliffs, but her round belly scorned the earth and rested on air alone.

The sails and masts and most of the high stern had rotted away, exposing three layers of deck to their gaze. Below the galleon, near Barselou's temporary camp, was a pile of rubble that had fallen over the years. The heap was overgrown by the octopus vines of a green succulent, but here trailed a rusty length of chain and there jutted a crumbling plank from the rudder.

"There's enough to prove she used to be a treasure ship, anyway," Trim's jubilant voice cried. His gaze sharpened. The sleeping form on the ground stirred, moaned and raised itself on its elbows. "Good morning, Mr. Barselou!" Trim greeted him. His voice was climbing back to the octave the Conovers were more familiar with.

Barselou scrambled to his feet, still half-fettered by the heavy blanket. His jet-black hair stood in tangled spikes and his pale eyes were heavy with sleep.

His eyes widened, then narrowed at the three mounted figures above him in the dawn. One hairy hand twitched toward the carbine that lay on the ground and Trim said, "No." Barselou halted, warily motionless, and looked at the pistol muzzle.

"Rude to awaken you like this," Trim pattered on. "Particularly to the noise of a dream castle crumbling about your ears. But that's the picturesque life, isn't it? Yes, Mr. Barselou, Calamity has come."

Barselou sagged visibly. His rugged face turned gray and he leaned for support against the boulder beside him. His colorless eyes, which seemed suddenly deeper in their sockets, glistened weakly at the Conovers. "It was you—" he began hoarsely, then stopped as if the effort were too much.

"No," said Sin earnestly. "We're here by accident. Don't you understand? He's Jones." "Or Trim. Or Jordan," said the little man gaily. "Yes, don't give these two credit for my adventuring. The Conovers were brought because they knew of Walking Skull and for company through the night. And principally—" his voice gained metallic edges—"because they stumbled onto one of my last resorts in my wallet. Something I didn't care to have publicized."

"Jones," said Barselou dully. "A mailing address only." Trim chuckled merrily. "It's comical that you took it for more than that. At this point, there's no harm in telling you that my real name is Jordan, widower, age 55, one daughter and racing interests on the coast which return me enough to indulge my hobby of seeking out the exotic in life. Quite a while ago I owned a couple of casinos in Las Vegas. Homer once worked for me.

"Anglin," he mused and shook his head. "A borderline case of ingenuity. He hurried to me with news of the Queen which you hired him to discover. I knew he was selling to both sides, but he thought he held the reins secretly. His blunder was to disregard my instructions to communicate by mail when all was ready. He telegraphed."

Barselou lifted his head. "I was pressing him." Color began pouring back into the fierce face. "So you guessed I saw the wire."

"I couldn't ignore the chance, considering the hold you had in Azure. I generally include a female companion in my exploits—they kick up such a blinding dust. And in this case it was a sort of celebration. My daughter Faye had just been released from—"

Trim halted abruptly to glare at the pale couple on the horses beside him. "She was held illegally. Her only illness was over-optimality!" "Forget that carbine!" he snapped, twisting back toward Barselou. The unmounted man shrugged and dropped his hands. Trim continued pleasantly. "So we had to separate for the time being, as you were expecting a pair of Joneses. The cottage had been reserved for a week, with no mention of number or sex. All arrangements had been made for an appointment with Anglin there—except the day. When he wired instead of writing, Faye was forced to occupy the cottage alone, while I took a room. We didn't dare to bear the least resemblance to a Mr. and Mrs. Jones of San Diego. Anglin made a stupid mistake over the cottage number, thought I had reneged on the deal, and turned to you in desperation. I couldn't catch him, but I stopped him."

A tinge of gold was on the cliffs that reared 10 feet or so above the imprisoned galleon. "Light enough to work by," he said happily. "Shall we join the lady?"

Wabash Strike Slows Local Mail Delivery

Effects of the Wabash railroad trainmen's strike were felt by the Jacksonville post office Wednesday, and by the postal system throughout this section of Illinois. The post office department took steps to reroute mail by truck and over other railroads.

Officials at the Jacksonville post office said the delivery of parcel post matter has been delayed more seriously than the dispatch of first class mail.

The city draws its heavy morning mail from the north and east from a star truck route out of Springfield that has been operated for a number of years. But most of the parcel post usually is handled by the Wabash. Arrangements were made to handle parcel post mail by rerouting it from Bloomington to this city over the Gulf, Mobile & Ohio, a delay of about three hours from the usual schedule.

St. Louis mail to this area will be handled by other railroad lines and trucks.

The second day passed without trains in operation on the Wabash. The last train to pass the local station moved west at 9 a. m. Tuesday.

George Medford, Retired Jersey Farmer, Dies

He is survived by his widow Mrs. Amanda Medford; three sons, Harold V. Medford and Ernest M. Medford of Jerseyville and G. Loren Medford of Carlinville, and five grandchildren and one great-granddaughter.

Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon, from the Church of Christ in this city, at 2:00 o'clock. Interment will be in the Oak Grove cemetery. Harold Ottwell and L. C. Roberts of Hartford will conduct the services.

Loyola Faces Bradley, Bowling Green Takes On Frisco In N.I.T.

New York, March 16—(AP)—The four Cinderella teams of the national basketball tournament will play tomorrow night in the semifinals of the Madison Square Garden meet tomorrow night. Loyola of Chicago will face Bradley of Tennessee in the 7 p.m. (CST) opener. Bowling Green, the towering favorite, will take on the San Francisco team in the 8:45 p.m. windup. The first game is rated a toss-up, while the second is a four-point favorite for the San Francisco team. The victors then will play it out for the championship Saturday night with the losers playing in a consolation game.

The four survivors made a clean sweep of the meet's four seeded outposts, Kentucky, St. Louis, Utah and Western Kentucky, on "mad Monday." It was no doubt the greatest series of upsets in basketball history.

Loyola and Bowling Green weren't supposed to be in the tourney in the first place and Bradley and San Francisco weren't expected to go beyond the first round. At least the N.I.T. committee felt that way when they seeded Kentucky first, St. Louis second, Bradley third, and Bowling Green fourth.

With Good Pitching Cubs Will Go Places In 1949 Race—Grimm

Los Angeles, March 16—(AP)—As weebone as they were during the 48 season, this much may be said for the Chicago Cubs: They got in there and gambled like river sports during the past winter.

On the theory that you can't drop lower than last, the bottom club of the National League traded players right and left and held out only such key stars as Pitcher John Schmitz and Outfielder Andy Pafko.

As a result, Manager Charlie Grimm feels confident he has added sufficient balance to bounce out of the cellar this coming season. All he asks is that a couple of pitchers come through for him, and that he discovers a reserve infielder or two. "You can't do it without pitching," says the great first baseman of other and better days at Wrigley Field. "Also, you've got to have a good man to back up your regular infield."

Barring their pitching, the Cubs have a real good ball club. If Schmitz could pitch every day (he won 18 for a last place outfit last year) it would be easy to pick the '49 champion in that wide open league.

But even Schmitz can't do that, and so Grimm finds himself dreaming that some-arm Mort Cooper will make a gallant comeback, that 39-year-old Dutch Leonard can win 15 games with his flutternail, and that Bob Rush, a towering young right-hander of great promise, will blow 'em down.

Acquisition of Frankie Gustine from Pittsburgh to play third base rounds out a better-than-fair infield for the Cubs. Also, it enables Pafko, a brilliant outfielder, to return where he belongs.

Eddie Waikusa's departure to the Phillies in the big winter player scramble also provides reliable Phil Cavarretta with a steady job at first. Emil Verban is a good if not brilliant, second baseman, and Roy Smalley, a comer, might prove himself one of the most valuable shortstops in the league before the season is out. He is hitting a long ball this spring.

Harry Walker, who led National league hitters with a .363 average only two years ago, was added to the Cubs outfield in a swap with the Phils. Cliff Abernethy, a bulky citizen who slammed 34 home runs for Los Angeles last season, also appears to have attached himself permanently to the club.

Those two, plus Pafko, Harold Jeffcoat, Peanut Lowrey and Clarence Maddern, all returnees, promise adequate outfielding. It is even doubted that such a fine little player as Lowrey will be able to hold a regular job, but don't bet against him.

In getting Gustine the Cubs were forced to surrender their veteran catcher Clyde McCullough, but they still have Bob Scheffing, a solid seasoned backstop who hit a solid 300 in 102 games last season. Also they have a prodigy named Forrest Burgess, only 22, who led the Southern Association in hitting with a .386 mark.

It is a club that should generate a lot of power if Cavarretta, Pafko, Walker and Gustine have good years. Give them pitching, as Grimm says, and they could play rough.

Henry J. Floreth Dies; Funeral Rites Sunday

Indian Missionary To Give Address At White Hall

White Hall—Dr. William A. Petzoldt, Baptist missionary among the Crow Indians of Montana for 45 years, will be the guest speaker at the First Baptist church, Sunday, March 20, at 7:30 p.m. The missionary and his wife have witnessed the growth of their work from what was once a small tepee village to a modern community where religious education, a public school, health education, and a well-rounded social program for Indian young people developed.

In 1937, Dr. Petzoldt was awarded the highest honor which an Indian can confer upon a white man, the giving of his own name, "White-Man-Runs-Him," to the missionary. Chief White-Man-Runs-Him was the last survivor of the six Indian scouts that led General Custer's command in the battle of the Little Big Horn, in 1876.

Mr. Petzoldt is an outstanding speaker having spoken in all but two of the states in the Northern Baptist Convention, as well as in Mexico and Canada.

Henry J. Floreth, senior member of the Illinois Tire and Battery and the Illinois Welding Products companies, died at 1 p.m. Wednesday at Passavant hospital where he had been a patient since Sunday. The family home is at 607 West College avenue.

For 20 years Mr. Floreth was a minister and a member of the Methodist conference. He filled a number of churches throughout central Illinois, but retired from the ministry at Concord in 1913 and opened the Illinois Tire and Vulcanizing company in association with his sons.

Henry J. Floreth

The company was one of the early tire companies in the Midwest. Its associated firm, the Illinois Welding Products company, services welding establishments over a wide area. The companies have branches in Quincy, Springfield and Decatur.

He was the son of the Rev. William H. and Wilhelmina Floreth and was born at Chester, Ill., on July 31, 1865. He was united in marriage to Ella Gieringer on Sept. 8, 1892 at Canton, Mo. She preceded him in death on Feb. 10, 1931.

He leaves two sons, Dorris and Ralph, both of Jacksonville; two grandsons and two great-granddaughters.

He also leaves two brothers and three sisters: W. H. Floreth, Monett, Mo.; Dr. Otto Floreth, Dixon, Calif.; Mrs. Rose Hehner, Chicago; Mrs. Anna Hill, Mt. Vernon, Iowa; and Miss Lydia Floreth, Los Angeles, Calif.

Mr. Floreth was a member of the Grace Methodist church.

Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at two o'clock at the Williamson Funeral Home. The Rev. Frank Marston will officiate and burial will be in Diamond Grove cemetery.

The family will meet friends at the funeral home from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Saturday.

Newest Teen-Age Books Circulated At Local Library

Teen-age interests have reached a new high in the book world. And according to Miss Frances Bailey, many of the newest works for teenagers are ready for circulation at the Jacksonville public library.

"Pretty Please," written especially for girls who want to be pretty, is Sheila John Daly's latest contribution to the teen world. In an engaging fashion Miss Daly, 20-year-old columnist, gives hints on top-to-toe grooming. Part, instructive illustrations by Selma Burgess add just the right note.

Marion Lowndes' "Manual for Baby-sitters" is a literary must for those of the younger set who are, would like to be, or have been engaged in the popular "sitting" profession. Intended for both sitters and their employers, the book promises to give complete mastery of the skills of baby sitting.

And those looking forward to the J.H.S. senior class play, "Our Hearts were Young and Gay," will be interested in the most recent books by its authors, Emily Kimbrough and Cornelia Otis Skinner.

Miss Kimbrough's latest is "It Gives Me Pleasure," while Miss Skinner tells the story of theatre life in "Family Circle."

Other popular fictionals are "The City Boy," a humorous novel about a fat 11-year-old boy by Herman Wouk; "Burnished Blade," a tale of adventure in medieval France by Schoonover; and "Laughter from Downstairs," in which Cecel Ormond relates the trials of a large Bohemian family of the early 1900's.

Ashland Women To Hold Party

Ashland—The Ashland Junior Woman's club will meet at 8 p.m. Thursday, March 17, at the home of Mrs. Mary Kay Gardner, Mrs. Sue Doolin and Mrs. Joan Jokisch will be assistant hostesses. This is a St. Patrick's Day kid party and each member will come dressed as a "Kid." The social committee will be in charge of the affair.

Lion's Minstrel

Tickets go on sale starting Thursday night at R & M Electric House. All seats reserved. Prices 50c, 60c, 74c, $1, and $1.20. Net proceeds to Passavant hospital building fund.
